Smyrna, Sept. 3. The 16th of laft month the Ruffian fleet appeared before Bodroun, bombarded that town and castle, half of which they destroyed, and burnt a ship and galley in the port, which were just sinished and ready to sail. This expedition cost the Greeks dear, for the Turke, after the departure of the Russian ships, murdered almost every one of them in revenge.

The Captain of a French vessel arrived have the and of Angust from Alexandria here the 23d of August, from Alexandria (after having been examined by the Russians) made the following report to the French Chancery: "Admiral Spiritow charged me to salute the French Conful in his name, and tell him that his Excellency hoped to make him a vifit here foon." This account alarms the Christians in this place very much, for they fear lest the Turks should serve them as they did the Greeks at Bodroun.

The King has confiderably augmented his army, without creating one new officer, by adding 40 men to each company, which now confide of 210 men, and before only of 166, which makes an augmentation of 40 to 50,000 men, and increases the Prussian forces to the anmber of 200,000 men, among whom are all the best men taken out of the different garrifons, who have been replaced by fome of the recruits raised in Poland .-All these troops are exercised daily, to the ation of all the beholders; the largest bodies feem to move as if there was but one The Prussian troops have been long but what they were before is nothing in comparison of what they are now.

Naples, September 28. Their Sicilian Majesties returned from the Island of Proci. ta on Saturday last in the afternoon, remained here that night, and removed early the next day to Portici. The day of their Majetties return to this city, an account was brought from Sicily of a revolution at Palermo, the people having been discontented at the high price of provisions (some essential articles of which at times were totally wanting) owing to monopolizers, one of whom had loaded two thips with cheefe for Naples, which produced a great scarcity of that ne-ceffary article at Palermo; which ships, however, were flopped just without the harbour, and the cargoes fold at the market price to the people, by order of the Pretor Prince Caffaro, who was foon after feized with the ffrangury, and died on the 20th in-ftant. This Nobleman having been attended during his illness by the Viceroy's (the Marquis de Foglianis) lurgeon, a suspicion arose among the rioters, that the Viceroy wished his death; whereupon they proceeded, to the number of about thirty thousand, to the Viceroy's palase, where the Prince Pietra Persia, son of the Prince Butters; a joing Sicilian Nobleman, about twenty years of age, happened to be with the Viceroy's palase, the prince Butters of age, happened to be with the Viceroy years of age, happened to be with the Vice-

Letters from Peterfburgh, mention the fetting out of a fquadron of four ships of the line, and two frigates, under the Rear Admiral Creegh, which are to reinforce the fleet in the Archipelago. These letters add, that Count Alexis Orlow is to return to Russia; that Admiral Spiritow has asked to be recalled; and that that fleet will have another commander in chief, furnished with new instructions, regarding the present state of affairs in the Mediterrangan.

Constantinople, Odober 3. Three hundred Asiatic horsemen having crossed the canal near this city, who came from the Grand Vizir's army, it was given out that the in North America, three veffels with 775 troops were furceffively abandoning the army, and that the Janissaries had revolted, and were on their march hither to demand the pay that was due to thein, but that they had been stopped by the Kapigulas Kiayaffi, who had distributed great sums of money: among them. The whole of the above, however, on enquiry, was found to be entirely groundless; on the contary the greatest tranquility reigns in the army, and the above horsemen appeared to be volunteers, who had left the camp on account of the want of forage.

LONDON,

Off. 30. By a letter from Peterfburgh, dated September 28, we are informed, that Mr. Pallas, one of the learned, who are travelling in this valt empire, to make difcoveries in natural History, has found, near the river Jeni, a mass of iron, naturally foft and pliant, and weighing 152 Rullian pounds, which he has fent to the Imperial Academy in this city. This mass, which in its form, greatly refembles a sponge, is perforated throughout with fmall holes. filled with little particles of a beautiful polith, and an amber colour. It bends easily without the help of fire ; requires but very little heat to work it, and all forts of utenfile may be made of it ; but when put in a large fire, to purify a great piece at once, it becomes granulated and brittle, and ceases to be easily pliable. This iron was found on the top of a mountain, covered with wood, at a small distance from mount Re-
